BIOPHILIA

Biophilia is more than just a philosophy—biophilic design has been found to support cognitive function, physical health, and psychological well-being biophilic design allows for improved comfort and performance of the people occupying those spaces through the inclusion of natural elements in built spaces, such as non-artificial light, water or plants.

SPACE PLANNING:

One of our goals is to create sense of belonging, one of the primary keywords is connection, so we wanted to make sure that all the spaces are connected together if not through activities then visually, if not visually then through one huge inner court that act as a key space that gather and connect all the spaces together.
